

Manipulative Expression Recognition (MER)

Person B

Qualitative summary:

Person A's conversational style is inquisitive and emotional. They ask questions to understand the situation and express their feelings through their words and actions. They show confusion, hope, and panic at different points in the conversation. On the other hand, Person B's style is more detached and matter-of-fact. They provide straightforward answers without showing much emotion or empathy towards Person A's feelings. They also maintain silence at certain points, which adds to their aloof demeanor.

Labelled input:

Person A came home from their summer job the next day to find the kittens missing.

Person A: "Have you seen the kittens? They aren't in their crate!"

Person B: "Yes. They don't live here anymore." Dismissal, Not caring

Person A: confused: "Uhhhhh, what do you mean? I have someone that wants to come see them..."

Person B: silence Silent treatment

Person A: "Person B, what did you do? Did you give them away?" I ended on a hopeful note, unable to imagine what she was about to say.

Person B: "I let them go free." Acting as if nothing remarkable happened, Diminishing

Person A: panicked "What do you mean?!"

Person B: "I drove them down to a nice gated community in Location C and put them on some grass." Dismissal, Not taking seriously

Person A is completely stunned to the point of silence. Person A can't even squeak out a word as tears rush to their eyes and their heart sinks into their innards.

Person B: "Someone will find them. It's a nice area. They'll find a good home." Diminishing, Dismissal, Not taking seriously
