

Manipulative Expression Recognition (MER)

Qualitative summary:

Person A's conversational style is emotionally charged, confrontational, and manipulative. They frequently use dramatic language and make accusations, often shifting the topic to their feelings of being neglected or mistreated. They also display a sense of urgency and desperation in their messages, demanding immediate attention and responses. Person B, on the other hand, is more calm and rational in their responses. They attempt to understand the situation and ask for clarification, but also express frustration and confusion due to Person A's erratic behavior. They occasionally respond with sarcasm and seem to be trying to maintain their patience throughout the conversation.

Labelled input:

Person A: Hey. You better call me as soon as you get this. We need to talk. Creating a time pressure

Person B: What's up?

Person A: I am not telling you what the issue is just so you can decide whether or not my problem is significant enough for you to be concerned about. I am not telling you. Forget it. Evasion, Manipulation

Person B: You just said there was a problem. I am getting ready for work. Is this an emergency?? Are you okay? What's going on?

Person A: Oh, it's nothing. But call me immediately. As soon as you get on the road. Creating a time pressure, Manipulation

Person B: What?? Is there a problem or isn't there? Can't you just say what the issue is? If it's important, just say so.

Person A: You're not really getting ready for work, are you? Why are you texting me if you are so busy?? You're not busy. You're just avoiding me! I don't have to take your abuse. You make me feel like a piece of garbage, like nothing I have to say is important. You don't care about me at all! Accusation, Exaggeration, Victim playing Person B: I just asked you what the issue is, but you won't tell me! What am I supposed to do?

Person A: NOTHING! FORGET I ASKED! IT'S ALWAYS ALL ABOUT YOU AND WHAT YOU WANT. YOU COULD CARE LESS IF I WAS DYING!!! Accusation, Exaggeration, Victim playing

Person B: Come ON! You know that's not true. Talk to me.

Person A: I CAN'T TALK TO YOU! YOU NEVER LISTEN TO ANYTHING I SAY! Accusation, Exaggeration

Person B: I am trying, but...

Person A: It's been 30 minutes, and you still haven't called. What is taking so long? I bet you are texting someone else. Probably one of your many admirers...I am surprised you have any time for anything else. Must feel great having all those people to talk to who stroke your ego any time you want. You know they only talk to you because they want to sleep with you, right? They are all the same, and you love it, just admit it. You love the attention. JUST SAY IT Accusation, Exaggeration, Provocation

Person B: I can't deal with this craziness today. I have a big day ahead. Can you knock it off? If you're still upset at lunch, let's chat. Dismissal

Person A: I must talk to you NOW, and your day is NOT going to dictate what I get from you. You WILL CALL or you will see a very different side of me real soon. Creating a time pressure, Threats

Person B: You mean a more fun side than this? Can't wait. Dismissal, Sarcasm

Person A: THAT'S IT!! YOU HAVE PISSED ME OFF FOR THE LAST TIME! MARK MY WORDS YOU WILL BE SORRY. I HAVE A MEETING NOW. GO AWAY. Aggression, Threats

Person B: OK :/ Dismissal

Person A: OK?!?!?!? is that all you have to say? Just okay? God, what kind of horrible worthless piece of garbage must you think I am in order to treat me like this? Exaggeration, Victim playing

.....and on and on for an hour or more...

...and then later, after work:

Person A: Hey, let's get a drink. Ignoring previous conflict

Person B: I don't want to. No. Dismissal

Person A: So you hate me now? Should I just not contact you ever again? Is that how it is? Tell me, so I won't have to waste another minute of my life talking to you. Exaggeration, Manipulation, Victim playing

Person B: sigh